

Vilseck's local clubs and organizations are getting into the Christmas spirit with festive hot drinks and sweet and savory treats. Crackling campfires in the castle courtyard provide cozy warmth, and live music creates a captivating atmosphere. Artisans and hobbyists present their wares in three barns. Anyone looking for something small for their gift table will find what they're looking for here. There's also a book flea market run by the city and parish library.

Romantic CHRISTMAS MARKET AT DAGESTEIN CASTLE

Saturday, at 4:45 p.m., the children from St. Josef Kindergarten will walk with their lanterns from the market square into Dagestein Castle, where the Christmas market will be officially opened. Afterwards, St. Nicholas will present the children with presents.

Starting at 6:30 p.m., the stage belongs to the duo "Bangers & Mash," performing energetic Irish folk music at its finest. The two musicians complement each other perfectly. Max Leo's powerful, distinctive voice gives the audience goosebumps, and Benedict Kutzer (vocals, mandola, bodhrán) conjures up driving rhythms and melodies on mandola, bodhrán, and banjo. Their harmonious singing will get under your skin.

Sunday from 2 p.m., the Vilseck Music Association and the Schlicht Tower Musicians will put you in the mood for Christmas. At 5 p.m., the traditional appearance of the Christ Child and her angels will take place. The Christ Child will greet all guests and then distribute small gifts to the children.

Admission is free, as always!
